A step to serve people their needs effectively and bring great products to the healthcare market.

Diem has come into exclusionary distribution agreement with Emerson Ecologics for Healthcare practitioner line. Being a new kind of company for professional-brand dietary supplements and medical foods, Diem will provide products including Umbrellux DAO, Cerenx and Adiposano available through Emerson Ecologics and Emerson's Wellevate integrated dispensary platform beginning this month, a new kind of healthcare.

It is said by Kurt Cameron, COO of Diem that "Emerson Ecologics is providing us with the best distribution opportunities to get these vital supplements in the hands of healthcare providers so they can help patients who are living with these common challenges," and he further added "We are a company committed to providing solutions to healthcare practitioners, and this agreement with Emerson Ecologics will allow us to more effectively serve their needs."

Diem's products address a range of underserved and emerging health concerns. They brings together researchers, healthcare practitioners and consumers in a new approach to wellness management. Formed by an international partnership of scientists, nutraceutical ingredient producers and veterans of the natural products industry, Diem supplies safe and effective nutraceuticals produced to the highest quality standards and backed by rigorous scientific evidence.

Jaclyn Chasse, ND, Vice President at Emerson Ecologics also said that they are happy to being partner with Diem and to bring their great products to the health market.

It has been interpreted that this collaboration will lead to easy reach of medicine to their desired customer and keeping them disease free.
