

Angel yeast signed a letter of intent on cooperation with European company

18 November 2021 | News

Angel signed a letter of intent on cooperation with Givaudan, a well-known European company.

The two parties will continue to strengthen cooperation to provide more natural flavor and nutrition and health solutions to users around the world.

Angel signed a letter of intent on cooperation with Givaudan, a well-known European company.

Givaudan is a global leader in the field of daily-use and edible flavors. It is a multinational group with a long history and a high reputation. It has always been in a leading position in the world's flavors and fragrances industry.

Angel and Givaudan have had a friendly cooperative relationship for more than 10 years. The two parties have carried out close cooperation in R&D, production, and marketing, including yeast extracts and nutrition and health products. The two parties will continue to strengthen cooperation to provide more natural flavor and nutrition and health solutions to users around the world.

The CIIE attracted many Fortune 500 companies to participate this time. Angel International Marketing and Purchasing team communicated with many international partners to promote global market research, R&D cooperation, international OEM and supply chain development for trade and cross-border e-commerce business.