

Vitality Plus International have launched a new series of holistic Kampo herbal medicines and fermented foods

06 October 2022 | News

Herbal medicines and fermented products from Vitality Plus are known for helping food to be digested more quickly and the nutrients to be more effectively absorbed by the human body.

Herbal medicines and fermented products from Vitality Plus are known for helping food to be digested more quickly and the nutrients to be more effectively absorbed by the human body.

Vitality Plus International has long been a trustworthy source of nutritional products with ISO22000 and Health Food Production HACCP International certifications. The company takes pride in having a factory with a clean room production area free of polluted sources for maximum hygiene of their products. These products are also sent to third-party inspection units like SGS or Taiwan and the United States to pass the inspections.

Healthy diet for healthy body and mind

In daily diets, most eaters are said to pay attention only to the taste and convenience of food and not to the overall need of nutrition, hygiene, and health. To have a healthy body, a healthy diet full of nutritional value is ever more important.

This is what Vitality Plus aims to change for all eaters and foodies. By combining the speed of technology and its effectiveness, the company strives to bring high nutritional value products with traditionally healthy ingredients (which was used in Chinese medicine in the ancient times) to help create more power-packed meals filled with all sorts of necessary nutrients.

Natural, handpicked additive free ingredients

To achieve this, Vitality Plus's supplements contains ingredients like:

- Ginseng Shiquan fermented extract: It contains traditional ginseng, rehmannia, astragalus, atractylodes , angelica, white peony , cinnamon, chuanxiong, white Poria, licorice, raw Ginger and jujube.

- Brewer 's yeast: This product is rich in vitamin B, complete amino acids, various other vitamins, minerals, protein, as well as being rich in dietary fiber. Brewer's yeast is excellent in helping to aid digestion.
- Beetroot: Beetroot is an ingredient rich in natural antioxidants, which can help skin anti-aging and accelerate vitamin E absorption. In addition to that, beetroot is also very suitable for weight loss because it is rich in fiber while being low in calories.
- Soy protein: A plant protein powder that is made from 100% non-GMO defatted soybeans, which is void of excessive fat and carbohydrates from the soybeans.

Vitality Plus aims to change for all eaters and foodies. By combining the speed of technology and its effectiveness, the company strives to bring high nutritional value products with traditionally healthy ingredients