The CYETUS Cubic Espresso is a versatile, semi-automatic coffee machine that effectively grinds and extracts coffee, and steams milk, making it a solid option for home brewers.

The CYETUS Cubic Espresso is a versatile, semi-automatic coffee machine that effectively grinds and extracts coffee, and steams milk, making it a solid option for home brewers.

"Making your preferred cup of coffee should be easy and fuss-free," said Ralph Chen, VP & Head of Brand at Cyetus. "The LCD display on the CYETUS Cubic Espresso will further simplify the brewing experience, and we believe this will only benefit coffee lovers who appreciate consistent brews from the comfort of their homes."

Rich Customization Options

Featuring an easy-to-use LCD display, users can freely choose from a variety of options, including different shot sizes, duration of grinds and water temperatures. There are 15 grind settings to select from, enabling users to select an extra fine grind or coarse grind as they prefer. Whether it is French-press, drip or fresh brewed, the CYETUS Cubic Espresso allows you to create your ideal cup, easily.

Uncompromised Brew Quality

The CYETUS Cubic Espresso allows for a professional grade coffee making experience.

Its commercial-sized 58mm portafiller holds more grounds and ensures even water dispersion, working in tandem with a 15-bar pressure pump to deliver rich aroma.

A Swiss-made Hall Pulse Flowmeter enables a consistent brew by precisely controlling the water temperature during brewing, while a single-hole steam rod creates a smooth blanket of steamed milk foam, providing a delicate finish to one's latte.

Cyetus is built with a mission to empower everyday consumers via carefully thought-out quality products. The original inspiration for Cyetus was derived from a constellation in Greek mythology. The brand is made up of a group of passionate product designers who share a common love for Star Wars, and good coffee, among other interests.
