Popular Korean Food brand, 'YoungManDduk', will be making its US debut with their beloved Honey Oranda Snack Bars through Costco. The snack combines both Korea's authentic flavours and modern cuisine, creating a brand-new culinary innovation.

'Oranda' itself is a Korean traditional snack made from small, puffed wheat mixed with honey or syrup which are then shaped into snack bars. Its simple yet delicious taste has stood through time and continued to be loved by many people.

Capturing the crunchy and sweet properties of 'Oranda', YoungManDduk' Honey Oranda Snack Bars come in three different flavours based on traditional recipes: original honey flavour, soybean flavour, and black sesame flavour. You can experience the sweet taste of honey, as well as the savoury flavours of soybean and black sesame powder in each variety. This product has attracted attention with its diverse flavours and smooth texture, allowing consumers to enjoy both classic and modern tastes in one snack.

'Oranda' from YoungManDduk will be available for sale at Costco, primarily in the Los Angeles area, and subsequently in the Midwestern region, including Illinois and Ohio.
