

Canada Royal Milk receives approval to begin infant formula production

29 March 2024 | News

Canada Royal Milk is guided by the highest standards of safety, quality and excellence to create a made-in-Canada infant formula

Canada Royal Milk is guided by the highest standards of safety, quality and excellence to create a made-in-Canada infant formula

Canada Royal Milk issued the following statement regarding the production of infant formula for the Canadian marketplace:

Canada Royal Milk and its more than 150 skilled professionals employed in the Kingston facility welcome the decision by the Canadian Food Inspection Agency (CFIA) that will allow for the production of infant formula.

After a lengthy process of nearly two years, Canada Royal Milk has now received both Health Canada and CFIA approval. Meeting the infant formula needs of parents has been Canada Royal Milk's number one priority since breaking ground in 2019.

The next steps to begin production of the first batch of infant formula have been initiated, and it is anticipated that the product will be available for retail distribution from coast to coast to coast this summer.

Canada Royal Milk is guided by the highest standards of safety, quality and excellence to create a made-in-Canada infant formula. Now that the necessary approvals have been obtained, Canada Royal Milk is committed to supporting the health and nourishment of families across the country.â