

Plukon Food Group acquires Spanish poultry processor Sambau

30 April 2024 | News

By using mutual knowledge and capacity, the companies will further strengthen each other in building new growth and possibilities for the customers in the region of Madrid

By using mutual knowledge and capacity, the companies will further strengthen each other in building new growth and possibilities for the customers in the region of Madrid

Plukon Food Group (Plukon) and Sambau S.A. (Sambau) announced that Plukon has acquired 100 per cent of the shares of Sambau, a distributor and processor of poultry products in Madrid.

Sambau is a family-owned poultry business founded in 1986. The company specialises in serving the traditional Spanish poultry market, with core activities encompassing the processing and distribution of chicken. Sambau employs 56 employees and achieved a revenue of approximately EUR 21 million in 2023.

By using mutual knowledge and capacity, the companies will further strengthen each other in building new growth and possibilities for the customers in the region of Madrid.

Kees Kraijenoord, CEO of Plukon Food Group: “Combining the knowledge and experience of Sambau with our operations will create valuable synergies for our customers. We are looking forward to this new cooperation in Spain.”