UNLIMEAT, a leading Korean vegan food company, has announced it will launch its products at about 400 Sprouts Farmers Market stores nationwide in the USA. The initial product lineup includes three offerings: Korean BBQ original, bulgogi, and pulled pork.

UNLIMEAT offers innovative Korean BBQ and pulled pork products that cater to vegan and plant-based diets without compromising on taste or texture. UNLIMEAT's Korean BBQ is a plant-based alternative to traditional Korean barbecue. Their original sliced beef is sauceless, allowing consumers to add their sauce and create not only Korean or Asian dishes but also various Western foods like Philly cheese steak sandwiches and gyros. UNLIMEAT Bulgogi is crafted to deliver the savoury and sweet flavours characteristic of Korean BBQ that is typically only achieved with meat. UNLIMEAT pulled pork is another standout product, designed to replicate the texture and flavour of traditional pulled pork made from pork shoulder or similar cuts. Using innovative plant-based ingredients, UNLIMEAT achieves a shredded texture that closely mimics the original meat-based dish. This product is ideal for sandwiches, tacos, or as a protein-rich addition to any meal, appealing to both vegans and non-vegans alike.
