

Nutraland names Biowell NutriScience as distributor for Somato in Taiwan

20 August 2024 | News

This strategic alliance marks a significant step forward for Nutraland in delivering its groundbreaking products to the international market

This strategic alliance marks a significant step forward for Nutraland in delivering its groundbreaking products to the international market

Nutraland USA, Inc., a pioneer in innovative, plant-based nutritional solutions, announced an exclusive partnership with Biowell NutriScience Corp., Ltd. to distribute Somato, its patent-pending, whole-food derived phytemelatonin from tomatoes, in Taiwan. This strategic alliance marks a significant step forward for Nutraland in delivering its groundbreaking products to the international market.

Biowell NutriScience Corp., Ltd., a leading health and wellness company with a strong distribution network in Taiwan, will exclusively handle the marketing, sales, and distribution of Somato throughout Taiwan. Bill Yang, Product Development Manager at Biowell NutriScience, expressed enthusiasm for the partnership, stating, "We are honoured to be the exclusive distributor of Somato in Taiwan. This innovative product aligns perfectly with our mission of promoting a healthy and sustainable lifestyle. We are confident Somato will be a game-changer in the Taiwanese sleep aid market."

Somato is the first whole-food-derived phytemelatonin from tomatoes, offering a natural, effective alternative to traditional synthetic melatonin products. By partnering with Biowell NutriScience, the companies aim to improve sleep quality and overall well-being for Taiwanese consumers where synthetic melatonin is regulated as a drug.