

Australia's Pure Dairy partners with USA's Great Lakes Cheese

16 October 2024 | News

The investment from Great Lakes Cheese will provide further impetus to this exponential growth, starting with Pure Dairy's brand-new Victorian production facility set to open in 2025

The investment from Great Lakes Cheese will provide further impetus to this exponential growth, starting with Pure Dairy's brand-new Victorian production facility set to open in 2025

Headquartered in Melbourne, Pure Dairy is an international thought leader and facilitator of global end-to-end dairy trade, food services, manufacturing and branding. Now Pure Dairy is partnering with the USA's leading natural and processed cheese packager, Great Lakes Cheese.

Over the past decade, Pure Dairy has gone from being a local business to building a vast trading network across 72 countries and opening four international offices. The investment from Great Lakes Cheese will provide further impetus to this exponential growth, starting with Pure Dairy's brand-new Victorian production facility set to open in 2025. Pure Dairy's day-to-day operations will remain under Australian management.

Adrian Josephson, Executive Chairman of Pure Dairy, said: "The investment from Great Lakes Cheese accelerates our plans to acquire further assets and consolidate Australia's position as one of the world's top dairy producers."

Great Lakes Cheese's Vice President and Chief Financial Officer, Mark Anderson, said: "We were impressed by Pure Dairy's existing global footprint and are excited to be part of their expansion. Their strong relationships and deep understanding of individual markets assured us that Pure Dairy are the right partner for us as we now make our very first investment outside of America."