

Singapore's GFP partners with Vietnam's Nguyen Gia Cooperative

10 December 2024 | News

The cooperative will achieve 100 per cent cage-free operations in 2025 through GFP's technical expertise and Impact Incentives program

The cooperative will achieve 100 per cent cage-free operations in 2025 through GFP's technical expertise and Impact Incentives program

Singapore-based Global Food Partners (GFP) has partnered with Nguyen Gia Livestock Production Cooperative, led by Nguyen Huu Tue, one of North Vietnam's largest egg producers, to spearhead the country's largest transition from caged to cage-free egg production. With a flock of approximately 50,000 laying hens, the Cooperative will achieve 100 per cent cage-free operations in 2025 through GFP's technical expertise and Impact Incentives program. This groundbreaking initiative not only supports Vietnam's growing demand for responsibly sourced eggs but also empowers local producers to meet the 2025 cage-free commitments of food and hospitality businesses across the region.

At a signing ceremony in Hung Yen Province, stakeholders from across the food industry, local producers, and community leaders gathered to celebrate this partnership. The collaboration offers two solutions for food businesses looking to achieve cage-free commitments:

Direct Cage-Free Sourcing: Companies can purchase certified, physical cage-free eggs directly from Nguyen Gia Livestock Production Cooperative.

Impact Incentives Program: Businesses can also meet their cage-free commitments by purchasing Impact Incentives' cage-free credits that directly support Nguyen Huu Tue's cage-free production and transition.