

Solina acquires US-based Sokol Custom Food Ingredients

07 February 2025 | News

The acquisition will enhance Solina USA's sweet sauce capabilities, increase capacity and scale, further strengthen its resilient supply chain, and drive growth

The acquisition will enhance Solina USA's sweet sauce capabilities, increase capacity and scale, further strengthen its resilient supply chain, and drive growth

Paris-based Solina, a leader in the global food industry specialising in savoury food solutions, has acquired U.S.-based Sokol Custom Food Ingredients (Sokol), further expanding its presence in North America. This is on the heels of Solina's December 2024 acquisition of Advanced Food Systems, Inc. (AFS), as the company continues to take a leading role in the region's food industry.

Located in Countryside, Illinois, Sokol supplies custom savoury and sweet sauce solutions for the food manufacturing, retail, and food service channels. The acquisition will enhance Solina USA's sweet sauce capabilities, increase capacity and scale, further strengthen its resilient supply chain, and drive growth.

"Sokol's business is very complementary to Solina USA's business, and it also brings a new specialisation in sweet sauces to complement our expertise in savoury," said Anthony Franchetterre, Global CEO of Solina. "Like Solina USA, Sokol is a value-added partner to its customers through a unique blend of manufacturing capabilities, innovation, and ideation, led by a culinary-driven R&D Team."