AB InBev's venture capital division ZX Ventures has announced the opening of a new craft brewery in Wuhan, China in order to tap into the growing market for premium beers in the country.

The facility represents AB InBev's first dedicated craft beer facility in Asia.

AB InBev's venture capital division ZX Ventures has announced the opening of a new craft brewery in Wuhan, China in order to tap into the growing market for premium beers in the country.

The facility represents AB InBev's first dedicated craft beer facility in Asia, and will produce craft beers for its Goose Island, Boxing Cat and Kaiba brands.

AB InBev has provided a professional team to provide guidance to brewers and ensure quality standards are being met at the new facility.

AB InBev has been strengthening its position in the Chinese market over the last few months, as the establishment of the Wuhan facility follows the inauguration of a brewery in Fujian province in December 2017.
